DEACON'S CORNER

Our invitation to love

The disciples decided to go fishing but catch nothing. However, when Jesus shows up on the shore and starts directing them, they wind up with more fish than they can handle. Jesus then invites them to a meal that he has already prepared and tells them to bring some of the fish they have caught. However, he already has a complete meal prepared, with fish included.

Jesus is always inviting us to share in his work. What is his work? Why, the salvation of the world, of course! And not because he needs our help...he just wants us to share in the joy of his saving work. In the same way that a mother of a small child might invite the child to help her make a treat for the family, because she loves the child and wants the child to be with her and to share in the joy of an act of love, Jesus loves us and wants us to share in the joy of his life-saving work.

In the dialog that follows between Peter and Jesus we see Jesus forgiving Peter's denial and abandonment at the time of Jesus's arrest, not by forcing an act of contrition, but by getting him to acknowledge his love for Jesus. (Peter, do you love me?) Jesus also affirms his great love for him; a love that goes beyond any failures or offenses; a love so great that it washes them away. Jesus doesn't require a confession of guilt, but simply a confession of love and Peter's role as head of the church is confirmed with the words, 'Feed my sheep'.

This is banquet of love that Jesus in the same way invites us to share in. To make our offering, not because it's needed, because we are loved and wanted, and he wants us to share in his joy of his saving work.

Blessings and peace, Deacon Steve

RINCÓN DEL DIÁCONO

Nuestra invitación al amor

Los discípulos decidieron ir a pescar pero no pescaron nada. Sin embargo, cuando Jesús aparece en la orilla y comienza a dirigirlos, terminan con más peces de los que pueden manejar. Entonces Jesús los invita a una comida que ya ha preparado y les dice que traigan algunos de los pescados que han pescado. Sin embargo, él ya tiene preparada una comida completa, con pescado incluido.

Jesús siempre nos está invitando a compartir su obra. ¿Cuál es su trabajo? ¡Pues, la salvación del mundo, por supuesto! Y no porque necesite nuestra ayuda... sólo quiere que participemos de la alegría de su obra salvadora. Del mismo modo que una madre de un niño pequeño podría invitar al niño a ayudarla a hacer un regalo para la familia, porque ella ama el niño y quiere que el niño esté con ella y participe de la alegría de un acto de amor, Jesús nos ama y quiere compartir el gozo de su obra salvadora.

En el diálogo que sigue entre Pedro y Jesús, vemos a Jesús perdonando la negación y el abandono de Pedro en el momento del arresto de Jesús, no forzándolo a un acto de contrición, sino haciéndole reconocer su amor por Jesús. (Pedro, ¿me amas?) Jesús también afirma su gran amor por él; un amor que va más allá de cualquier falla u ofensas; un amor tan grande que los lava. Jesús no requiere una confesión de culpabilidad, pero simplemente una confesión de amor y el papel de Pedro como cabeza de la iglesia se confirma con las palabras, 'Apacienta mis ovejas'.

Este es un banquete de amor que Jesús nos invita de la misma manera a compartir. Para hacer nuestra ofrenda, no porque es necesario, porque somos amados y queridos, y quiere que participemos de su alegría por su obra salvadora.

Bendiciones y paz, Diácono Steve
