DEACON'S CORNER

In our gospel this week Jesus is asked if many people will be saved, and his answer isn't exactly reassuring. He says that many will attempt to enter but will not be strong enough.

He does say that many people will be saved and describes the people who will be turned away, not surprisingly, as "evildoers".

Christian freedom is the freedom to do good. All of us are called to that life, and with the gift of free will from our Creator, have the power to choose good over evil. Unfortunately, due to our fallen nature, many people do not choose good over evil. Jesus tells us that His Father is wondrously forgiving and that we can always repent and return to a state of grace. But he also warns us that at some point we will have made our choice and the gate will be closed. We don't have forever to decide to return.

St. John Paul II says that we don't get to decide what is right and what is wrong; God has already decided, and we are only free to choose between them. We can't make something evil into something good through our choice. No one sins by accident, inadvertently, or unknowingly. When we sin, we are freely choosing to do what we know is wrong.

Don't make the mistake of thinking forgiveness is automatic. Once, in the wake of a financial scandal at a church involving one of the staff, I remarked to a priest friend of mine "Well, at least we know that God will forgive her". He sharply replied, "You don't know that!". Confused, I said, "I thought God forgives all sins?" He said, "Not unless you're sorry..."

Blessings and peace, Deacon Steve

RINCÓN DEL DIÁCONO

En nuestro evangelio de esta semana, se le pregunta a Jesús si muchas personas se salvarán, y su respuesta no es exactamente tranquilizadora. Dice que muchos intentarán entrar pero no serán lo suficientemente fuertes. Él dice que muchas personas serán salvadas y describe a las personas que serán rechazadas, como es lógico, como "malhechores".

La libertad cristiana es la libertad de hacer el bien. Todos nosotros estamos llamados a esa vida, y con el don del libre albedrío de nuestro Creador, tenemos el poder de elegir el bien sobre el mal. Desafortunadamente, debido a nuestra naturaleza caída, muchas personas no eligen el bien sobre el mal. Jesús nos dice que Su Padre es maravillosamente indulgente y que siempre podemos arrepentirnos y volver a un estado de gracia. Pero también nos advierte que en algún momento habremos hecho nuestra elección y la puerta se cerrará. No tenemos una eternidad para decidir regresar.

San Juan Pablo II dice que no podemos decidir qué está bien y qué está mal; Dios ya ha decidido, y solo somos libres de elegir entre ellos. No podemos convertir algo malo en algo bueno a través de nuestra elección. Nadie peca por accidente, sin darse cuenta o sin saberlo. Cuando pecamos, elegimos libremente hacer lo que sabemos que está mal.

No cometas el error de pensar que el perdón es automático. Una vez, a raíz de un escándalo financiero en una iglesia que involucró a uno de los miembros del personal, le comenté a un sacerdote amigo mío: "Bueno, al menos sabemos que Dios la perdonará". Él respondió bruscamente: "¡Tú no sabes eso!". Confundido, dije: "¿Pensé que Dios perdona todos los pecados?" Él dijo: "No, a menos que lo sientas..."

Bendiciones y paz, Diácono Steve

The greatest gift God gave us is also our greatest curse, which is the free will. We are made in God's image, the Bible says, which means we have the ability to love him or not love him, to reject him or not reject him.
