*Even Through
Troubled waters
God is with you*

Isaiah 43:2

DEACON'S CORNER

Appropriate name-calling

I once had a co-worker who used to get very angry with people when they disagreed with her. Even after the meeting and the people were gone, she remained angry. I finally pointed out to her that you don't have to be angry at a person just because the two of you disagree. She replied angrily "Yes you do!" I then stopped before she got angry with me.

Jesus in telling us to love our enemy is not saying that we have to love the fact that they oppose us, or that we need to love what they say or do. Just that we need to see first their humanity; see them as a child of God, and beloved by their creator. Their actions and opinions come a long way after that. This radical Christian love of 'the other' was one of the most attractive things about the early Church and is what helped our faith to spread so rapidly throughout the Roman world and beyond.

Today in our secularized society we see such a great intolerance of dissenting opinions. Our cancel culture attacks anyone who deviates from the 'approved' opinions with a viciousness that is heartbreaking to observe. We are quick to attach labels to people: 'deniers', 'racists', 'bigots', 'mis-informers', etc., and then use that to justify our anger and hatred. We need to stop calling people names just because we disagree. The next time you want to call someone a name, how about starting with 'Child of God'.

Blessings and peace, Deacon Steve

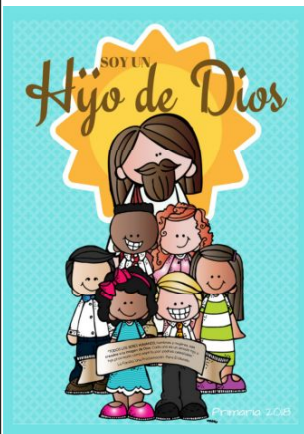

RINCÓN DEL DIÁCONO

Insultos apropiados

Una vez tuve una compañera de trabajo que se enfadaba mucho con la gente cuando no estaba de acuerdo con ella. Incluso después de que la reunión terminara y la gente se fueran, ella permanecía enojada. Finalmente le señalé que no tienes que estar enojado con una persona solo porque ustedes dos no están de acuerdo. Ella respondió enojada: "¡Sí, lo haces!" Entonces me detuve antes de que ella se enojara conmigo.

Jesús, al decirnos que amemos a nuestro enemigo, no está diciendo que tenemos que amar el hecho de que se oponen a nosotros, o que debemos amar lo que dicen o hacen. Solo que necesitamos ver primero su humanidad; verlos como hijos de Dios, y amados por su creador. Sus acciones y opiniones llegan muy lejos después de eso. Este amor cristiano radical por "el otro" fue una de las cosas más atractivas de la Iglesia primitiva y es lo que ayudó a que nuestra fe se extendiera tan rápidamente por todo el mundo romano y más allá.

Hoy en nuestra sociedad secularizada vemos una intolerancia tan grande a las opiniones disidentes. Nuestra cultura de cancelar ataca a cualquiera que se desvíe de las opiniones "aprobadas" con una crueldad que es desgarrador observar. Nos apresuramos a poner etiquetas a las personas: 'negadores', 'racistas', 'fanáticos', 'informantes', etc., y luego usamos eso para justificar nuestra ira y odio. Necesitamos dejar de insultar a las personas solo porque no estamos de acuerdo. La próxima vez que quieras llamar a alguien por un nombre, ¿qué tal si comienzas con "Hijo de Dios"?

Bendiciones y paz, Diácono Steve
