DEACON'S CORNER

Go forth and make disciples!

In the first reading this week we have the description of the Ascension of Jesus. It's important to note that this was an actual event. Luke, a historian of the first rank, provides an eyewitness account. We also know that Jesus will return because he said he would; and we know his promises are trustworthy.

The two angels who are there at the ascension ask the Apostles "Why are you standing there looking at the sky? This Jesus who has been taken up from you into heaven will return." In other words, it's time to get busy and start preparing your lives to meet him. We don't know when he will return, but even if he doesn't return tomorrow, we might be going to meet him tomorrow. In our Gospel reading Jesus makes clear what he wants us to do. We are supposed to go and make disciples! So let us not waste time standing around looking at the sky and get to work on the task he has set before us.

There was a wonderful commercial running on TV a few years ago that showed a series of people doing kind and generous deeds for someone who needed help. But it wasn't just people 'paying it forward', because it wasn't the person who received the favor who performed the next kindly act, it was just someone who was there and saw it. A long chain of good works was inspired by the first good work, always by people who had simply witnessed what had happened earlier.

You don't have to be a great preacher to bring people to God. You can inspire good works in others simply by how you live your life. So, let's get to work, that God may reap a great harvest. Let us, in each moment and each encounter every day, show Jesus to the world.

Blessings and peace, Deacon Steve

RINCÓN DEL DIÁCONO

¡¡Id y haced discípulos!

En la primera lectura de esta semana tenemos la descripción de la Ascensión de Jesús. Es importante tener en cuenta que esto fue un evento real. Lucas, un historiador de primera fila, proporciona un relato de un testigo presencial. Nosotros también sabemos que Jesús regresará porque dijo que lo haría; y sabemos que sus promesas son dignas de confianza.

Los dos ángeles que están allí en la ascensión preguntan a los Apóstoles: "¿Por qué estáis ahí parados mirando al cielo? Este Jesús que ha sido tomado de vosotros arriba en el cielo, volverá". En otras palabras, es hora de ponerse a trabajar y comenzad a preparar vuestras vidas para encontrarlo. No sabemos cuándo regresará, pero incluso si no regresa mañana, podríamos encontrarnos con él mañana. En nuestra lectura del Evangelio, Jesús deja claro lo que quiere que hagamos nosotros. ¡Se supone que debemos ir y hacer discípulos! Así que no perdamos el tiempo parados mirando el cielo y pongamonos a trabajar en la tarea que nos ha encomendado.

Hubo un comercial maravilloso en la televisión hace unos años que mostraba una serie de personas haciendo cosas amables y actos generosos para alguien que necesitaba ayuda. Pero no fue solo la gente la que 'pagó por adelantado', porque no fue la persona que recibió el favor quien realizó el siguiente acto amable, fue solo alguien que estaba allí y lo vio. Una larga cadena de buenas obras se inspiró en la primera buena obra, siempre de personas que habían simplemente sido testigo de lo que había sucedido antes.

No tienes que ser un gran predicador para llevar a la gente a Dios. Puedes inspirar buenas obras en otros simplemente por cómo vives tu vida. Entonces, pongámonos manos a la obra, para que Dios coseche una gran cosecha. Hagamos, en cada momento y cada encuentro cada día, mostrar a Jesús al mundo.

Bendiciones y paz, Diácono Steve
