DEACON'S CORNER

The four gifts of Pentecost

When Jesus came upon his Apostles, hiding out in fear in the upper room, he didn't come empty handed. He had four important gifts for them. He didn't let the locked doors slow him down, either.

First, he gave them the gift of faith. Their doubt was dispelled as he stood right in from of them, allowed them to touch his wounds, and ate before them. These eyewitnesses who talked, ate, and spent time with the risen Christ confirm our own faith, not only by the words they left us, but by the way their lives were transformed by the experience, as they went from hiding in fear to boldly proclaiming the truth of Christ.

The second gift was the peace of God, which enables peace with self and then peace with others. The peace of Christ which allows us to suffer the tribulations of this world without fear, knowing that no matter what happens to us in this life, He will be there to raise us up on the last day.

The third gift was purpose! Christ gave His Church a mission, to go out and make disciples. At the end of mass when the Priest or Deacon says: "Go forth, the mass is ended", he isn't just announcing the end of the mass. He is sending you out to preach the good news by the way you live your life.

Lastly, Christ gave His Church the power to forgive sins, so that his mercy would be made available to all of us; that despite our weaknesses and failings, we could stay in communion with Him. These were gifts to his Apostles, to his Church, and so they also were gifts for each of us that we received by virtue of our Baptism.

Blessings and peace, Deacon Steve

RINCÓN DEL DIÁCONO

Los cuatro dones de Pentecostés

Cuando Jesús se encontró con sus Apóstoles, escondidos con miedo en el aposento alto, no vino con las manos vacías. Él tenía cuatro regalos importantes para ellos. Tampoco dejó que las puertas cerradas lo detuvieran.

Primero, les dio el don de la fe. Su duda se desvaneció cuando él se paró justo frente a ellos, les permitió tocar sus heridas, y comió delante de ellos. Estos testigos que hablaron, comieron y pasaron tiempo con el Cristo resucitado confirman nuestra propia fe, no sólo por las palabras que nos dejaron, sino por la forma en que sus vidas fueron transformadas por la experiencia, mientras pasaban de esconderse en el miedo a proclamar audazmente la verdad de Cristo.

El segundo regalo fue la paz de Dios, que permite la paz consigo mismo y luego la paz con los demás. La paz de Cristo que nos permite sufrir las tribulaciones de este mundo sin temor, sabiendo que pase lo que pase en esta vida, Él estará allí para resucitarnos en el último día.

¡El tercer regalo fue el propósito! Cristo le dio a su Iglesia una misión, salir y hacer discípulos. Al final de la Misa cuando el Sacerdote o el Diácono dice: "Pueden ir en paz, la misa ha terminado", no está simplemente anunciando el final de la Misa. Él te está enviando a predicar las buenas nuevas por la forma en que vives tu vida.

Por último, Cristo dio a su Iglesia el poder de perdonar los pecados, para que su misericordia se hiciera disponible para todos nosotros; que a pesar de nuestras debilidades y fallas, podamos permanecer en comunión con Él. Estos fueron regalos para su Apóstoles, a su Iglesia, y así también fueron dones para cada uno de nosotros que recibimos en virtud de nuestro Bautismo.

Bendiciones y paz, Diácono Steve
