Ethics & Integrity in Ministry (EIM)

Preventing Abuse and Providing Healing

Bishop Joe S. Vásquez and the Diocese of Austin are committed to the prevention of the harm of any of God's People and to supporting those who have experienced abuse. Go to www.austindiocese.org/eim to learn about reporting requirements and procedures if you know or have reasonable cause to believe that abuse of a minor, elderly adult, or adult with a disability has occurred, or if you have concerns about other unethical behavior by Church personnel or volunteers.

Compliance with diocesan EIM policies is required of all clergy, consecrated sisters and brothers, seminarians, employees, and adult lay volunteers serving in ministries.

To be compliant, one must have an account with VIRTUS.org, attend an initial live training, complete the online refresher training every three years thereafter, and consent to a background check every three years.

The more people in our diocese who are trained to spot and report abuse and inappropriate behavior, the safer our parishes, schools, and communities will be for children and vulnerable adults.

To learn more about EIM Policies and compliance requirements, contact your parish/school EIM Site Administrator

St. Mary's Brenham is hosting a 3-hour EIM Workshop on September 30, 2023, 9:00 am in the PAC.

You must have an EIM account (complete and submit the EIM Application at VIRTUS.org) and pre-register to attend this workshop. Contact Ellen Remmert, EIM Site Administrator, at elremmert@gmail.com, for assistance if needed.

NOTES: 1) Plan to arrive promptly as late arrivals will not be admitted and 2) Do not bring children to the workshop.

If you are a victim of sexual abuse and have concerns regarding your attendance at a workshop, please contact the EIM Director at (512) 949-2447 to discuss an alternative workshop arrangement.

Are you still locked in?

Last weekend the gospel gave us a very important topic for Christian life, the topic was forgiveness. It is clear that in several parts of the gospel Jesus insists on the importance of forgiving. We see it in this parable, in the Lord's Prayer, and in the same example that Jesus gives us when he is on the cross, forgiving those who crucified him. Here I am not going to repeat the homily I gave last Sunday, but I do want to share this reflection on forgiveness, which is not only important to live as Christians, but also to be happy.

Many years ago, in a Nazi concentration camp, two Jews met who shared the same tortures and atrocities; they managed to be survivors when the war finally ended. Some time later, they met again in a shopping plaza, and decided to go have a coffee, among so many topics about the direction their lives took after the war, one asked the other: - "And have you already managed to forgive the Nazis?" The other, with a face of horror and sudden bitterness, answered: - "How do you think I'm going to forgive them? Impossible! I still remember the music they played for us at midnight when they made us walk barefoot in the snow, I can still smell the smell of the ovens when they lit them, I still remember the dull eyes of our deceased brothers... and yet you ask me that, if I have forgiven them, no! The answer is no...!" After a brief moment of silence, while their gazes held each other, one of them full of hatred and the other's gaze full of deep compassion, with a soft voice the other man responded... "then I am sorry that you are still locked in those concentration camps." Forgiving is not only an essential characteristic of a Christian, but also an indispensable aspect of whoever decides to be happy. Forgiveness gives us inner freedom and this freedom is essential to be happy. Gracious Father, forgive us our trespasses, just as we forgive those who trespass against us.

¿Aun te tienen encerrado?

El fin de semana pasado el evangelio nos dio un tema muy importante para la vida cristiana, el tema fue el perdón. Está claro que en varias partes del evangelio Jesús nos insiste en la importancia de perdonar. Lo vemos en esta parábola, en la oración del Padre Nuestro, y en el mismo ejemplo que Jesús nos da cuando está en la cruz, perdonando a quienes lo crucificaban. Aquí no voy a repetir la homilía que di el domingo pasado, pero si quiero compartir esta reflexión sobre el perdón, que no solamente es importante para vivir como cristianos, sino también para ser felices.

Muchos años atrás, en un campo de concentración Nazi, se conocieron dos judíos que compartieron los mismos suplicios y atrocidades, ellos lograron ser sobrevivientes cuando la guerra por fin terminó. Tiempo después se reencontraron en una plaza comercial, y decidieron ir a tomar un café, entre tantos temas del rumbo que sus vidas tomaron después de la guerra uno le pregunta al otro: - ¿y ya lograste perdonar a los Nazi? El otro con una cara de espanto y de súbita amargura le contesta: - ¿Cómo piensas que los voy a perdonar? ¡Imposible!, aún recuerdo la música que nos ponían a media noche cuando nos hacían caminar descalzos sobre la nieve, aun puedo percibir el olor de los hornos cuando los encendían, aún recuerdo los ojos apagados de nuestros hermanos fallecidos... y aun así me preguntas que, si los he perdonado, no!, la respuesta es no..! Después de un breve momento de silencio, donde las miradas se sostenían uno al otro, una de ellas llena de odio y la mirada del otro llena de una profunda compasión, y que con voz suave le respondía... entonces lamento que aun sigas encerrado en esos campos de concentración. El perdonar, no solo es una característica esencial de cristiano, sino también un aspecto indispensable de quien decide ser feliz. El perdón nos da la libertad interior y esta libertad es indispensable para ser feliz. Buen Padre Dios, perdona nuestras ofensas, así como también nosotros perdonamos a los que nos ofenden.

THE HEART OF MAN

When God created Adam, He gave him a threefold mission. First, along with Eve, he was to “be fertile and multiply”; to “subdue” the earth and “have dominion” over the creatures of the earth (Gen. 1:28). Then, God gives Adam in particular the commission to “cultivate and care for” the garden where He places him (Gen. 2:15). These passages reflect the keys to a man’s identity in God’s design. The heart of a man desires to generate life and to create things; to be productive; and to provide for and protect others. Said another way, every man is called to be both a husband and a father — that is, to give himself to another in love, and to be spiritually fruitful. Each of the particular vocations God can call a man to addresses these longings of the masculine heart in a different way. Married men, priests, and religious brothers all sacrifice themselves for others. They reflect God’s own fatherhood, giving life through their self-sacrificing love, bringing order through their work, and providing for and protecting those whom God places in their care.

And all of these vocations are founded on a Christian man’s primary identity — that of a beloved Son of the Father. His identity flows not from what he does, but from Whose he is — and that identity gives meaning and direction to his work.

EL CORAZÓN DEL HOMBRE

Cuando Dios creó a Adán, le dio una triple misión. Primero, junto con Eva, debía “ser fértil y multiplicarse”; “someter” la tierra y “tener dominio” sobre las criaturas de la tierra (Génesis 1:28). Luego, Dios le da a Adán en particular la comisión de “cultivar y cuidar” el jardín donde lo coloca (Gén. 2:15).

Estos pasajes reflejan las claves de la identidad del hombre en el diseño de Dios. El corazón del hombre desea generar vida y crear cosas; ser productivo; y para proveer y proteger a los demás. Dicho de otra manera, todo hombre está llamado a ser a la vez marido y padre, es decir, entregarse a otro en amor y ser fructífero espiritualmente.

Cada una de las vocaciones particulares que Dios puede llamar a un hombre para abordar estos anhelos del corazón masculino de una manera diferente. Los hombres casados, los sacerdotes y los hermanos religiosos se sacrifican por los demás. Reflejan la propia paternidad de Dios, dando vida a través de su amor abnegado, trayendo orden a través de su trabajo y proveyendo y protegiendo a aquellos a quienes Dios pone a su cuidado. Y todas estas vocaciones se basan en la identidad primaria del hombre cristiano: la de un Hijo amado del Padre. Su identidad no surge de lo que hace, sino de Quién es, y esa identidad da significado y dirección a su trabajo.

DEACON'S CORNER

Sometimes God's ways are not our ways. Today's Gospel describes God's unexpected and abundant generosity. In the Gospel Jesus says heaven is like an owner who goes out to his vineyard multiple times a day to hire vineyard workers. At the end of the day some workers have labored long hours in the hot sun while others were hired later in the day; some late as 5 PM. Naturally the workers who labored all day expected higher wages than the ones who only worked a few hours. But unexpectedly all workers received the same usual daily wage. On the surface this seems unfair or even unjust and the workers who worked all day resent what the owner is doing.

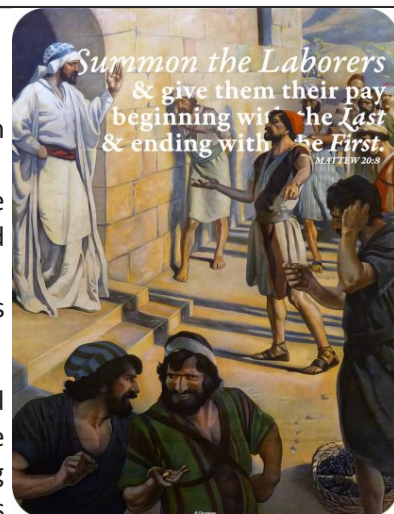

There are a couple of levels to this parable. First, in the Old Testament Israel is described as God's vineyard. There were many Jews, workers in God's vineyard, who followed the Law of God all of their lives and here comes Jesus offering God's salvation to all including Gentiles and sinners who have recently only come to Christ. The Scribes and Pharisees especially resented this.

Likewise, throughout history there have been those who have followed Jesus their entire lives: being faithful to His commands, practicing the virtues, frequenting the sacraments etc. On the other hand others convert very late in life, even on their death bed, after a life of sin. Some people fall away from the church, sometimes for many years but God is always waiting for them to return so he can generously restore them to Himself. God generously offers salvation to all who come to Him; those who have been faithful all their lives as well as those who have not. Finally, which of us has been perfect every moment of our lives? We sin. We get lazy in the vineyard but God is always extending His generosity to us.

God's wants all to come to eternal beatitude. We should be joyful at God's generosity and not resent God's generosity to others.

Let us praise God for His merciful generosity.

Deacon John

RINCÓN DEL DIÁCONO

A veces los caminos de Dios no son los nuestros. El evangelio de hoy describe la inesperada y abundante acción de Dios. generosidad. En el Evangelio Jesús dice que el cielo es como un dueño que sale a su viña múltiple veces al día para contratar trabajadores de viñedos. Al final del día, algunos trabajadores han trabajado muchas horas en el caluroso sol mientras que otros fueron contratados más tarde ese mismo día; algunos tan tarde como a las 5 p.m. Naturalmente los trabajadores que trabajaron todo el día esperaban salarios más altos que los que sólo trabajaban unas pocas horas. Pero inesperadamente todos los trabajadores recibieron el mismo salario diario habitual. Superficialmente esto parece injusto y los trabajadores que trabajaron todo el día resienten lo que está haciendo el dueño.

Hay un par de niveles para esta parábola. Primero, en el Antiguo Testamento se describe a Israel como la viña de Dios. Había muchos judíos, trabajadores de la viña de Dios, que seguían la Ley de Dios toda su vida y aquí viene Jesús ofreciendo la salvación de Dios a todos, incluidos los gentiles y los pecadores que recientemente solo han venido a Cristo. A los escribas y fariseos les molestaba especialmente esto.

Asimismo, a lo largo de la historia ha habido quienes siguieron a Jesús toda su vida: siendo fieles a sus mandamientos, practicando las virtudes, frecuentando los sacramentos, etc. En cambio otros que se convierten muy tarde en la vida, incluso en su lecho de muerte, después de una vida de pecado. Algunas personas se alejan de la iglesia, a veces durante muchos años, pero Dios siempre está esperando que regresen para poder restaurarlos generosamente Él mismo. Dios ofrece generosamente la salvación a todos los que acuden a Él; aquellos que han sido fieles toda su vida así como aquellos que no lo han hecho. Finalmente, ¿quién de nosotros ha sido perfecto en cada momento de nuestras vidas? Pecamos. Nos hacemos perezosos en la viña pero Dios siempre está extendiendo su generosidad hacia nosotros.

Dios quiere que todos lleguen a la bienaventuranza eterna. Deberíamos estar gozosos por la generosidad de Dios y no resentirnos por su generosidad hacia los demás.

Alabemos a Dios por su generosidad misericordiosa.
